

Michael Oli, P.Eng.

Michael has a BSc (Hons) in Molecular Microbiology from the University of Calgary, BSc in Chemical engineering from the University of Alberta, MBAs from Queen's School of Business, Queen's University and Johnson Graduate School of Management, Cornell University, NY, USA and a CMA Alberta. Michael Oli has a consulting firm called EB Vision Engineering & Business Consulting Inc. and currently works for Bantrel at the Strathcona Esso Refinery as a senior process design engineer.

Previously, he worked for CoSyn Technology, WorleyParsons Canada as a lead process engineer, at Syncrude Canada Ltd in Fort McMurray as a senior process engineer, and at TWD Technologies as a lead process engineer.

In 2010, he taught management accounting and financial accounting in Grant MacEwan University as a sessional instructor.

Michael's diverse voluntary activities include teaching, volunteering for the Foothills Hospital in Calgary, serving as a volunteer gallery guide at the Edmonton Space and Science center, volunteering in Toastmasters clubs, helping APEGGA conduct science Fairs and mentoring protégés under APEGGA's mentoring program. Michael began participating in APEGGA branch's executive committee in Fort McMurray and served as a member of the Edmonton branch Executive committee in 2010 and as a vice chair in 2011.